re: Wynn Construction, Gordon Wynn, General Contractor

To Whom It May Concern:

JDM Foods Corporation hired Wynn Construction to manage and be the general contractor on the construction of our production kitchen plant on Shelton Drive in Hollister, Ca. between fall 2004 and summer 2005. Our project consisted of the normal requirements for general construction, plumbing, and electrical work, as well as specialized requirements related to the needs of building an inspected food processing facility, and the hiring and management of all the requisite sub-contractors that were a part thereof.

Gordon and his team were excellent. We could not have made a better choice. For the first time ever, in my experience, we went entirely through a construction project without going over budget or over schedule. Every phase completed on time. In my opinion, this represents the epitome of professionalism and skill for a general contracting firm.

Beyond these major benchmarks, however, Wynn Construction impressed me with their integrity, both in dealings with us as well as with the subcontractors, and with their attention to quality. Gordon is a stickler for getting jobs done right, and he made sure that when something needed to be "fixed" by a subcontractor, we did not have to pay extra simply because the job wasn't done right the first time. Finally, Gordon is also committed to cleanliness of the job site. I have never seen a construction site kept so clean and free of debris.

In summary, I would not hesitate to hire Wynn Construction again, and have done so. I do not hesitate to recommend them to any other organization with a project large or small. If the reader has any questions related to Wynn Construction and my experiences with them, I encourage them to call me directly at (831) 902-7400.

Sincerely,

Jim Chapman
